

Class ID 2112 Cultural Foundations For Future Leaders

Course Instructor: Dean Chin

Through the scientific study of China's earliest recorded dynasties of the Shang and Zhou, students will develop critical thinking and analytic skills needed to become future leaders. In this highly interactive course, students will gain workable and foundational knowledge of their own foundational cultural history while developing critical leadership skills and abilities such as: Evidence Gathering and Assessment, Evaluation of Conflicting Interpretations, and Analyze Past Examples of Change. All of these are critical skill sets needed for future leaders.